NASSON COED RETURNS FROM HAWAIIAN PROGRAM

A Nasson College coed recently had "aloha" to her Hawaiian home of ten months.

Miss Barbara Douglass, a student of the behavioral sciences of Nasson's experimental New Division, has returned to Maine after participating in a pilot research project on the island of Kauai, Hawaii.

"It's the first time I realized that learning doesn't have to come from books," is how Miss Douglass summarizes her experience in the project which was designed and sponsored by the Union for Research and Experimentation in Higher Education. She was one of 17 students representing Union member colleges of Antioch, Goddard and Nasson, who established residence on the tiny Pacific Island and offered community service.

The intent of the program is to enable students to study a sub-culture by actual community involvement. Unlike the traditional junior year abroad, students are required to find their own room, board and transportation—a first time experience which was "an education in itself" for Miss Douglass.

"Since it was a pilot project," said the pretty coed, "there were many unanswerable questions at first. There we were, with great idealistic visions of instant success, but not knowing where to begin."

"It was rough going and discouraging at first," she admitted. "And more than once I thought about returning to Maine." But perseverance won out, and Barbara began developing her project—the establishment of a children's opportunity center. The center aided children with emotional and educational difficulty in public schools and was an English classroom for Filipino immigrant children.

Projects by her colleagues included research in community resources in conjunction with the Office of Economic Opportunity, the adaptation of a curriculum at a local technical school which changed its status to community college, and various other educational and sociological services.

"It would be impossible for me to classify the knowledge I gained into fields or areas of study," she said. "In fact, the most important thing I learned was that education shouldn't be divided into specific nonrelated courses—"

HOME FROM HAWAII—Barbara Douglass of Bethel displays information concerning her participation in a community research project in Kauai, Hawaii.

She represented Nasson College's New Division, Springvale, where she will be a junior in September.

that just as much, if not more can be learned outside the classroom in a community situation such as this. And it seems so much more practical," she added. Miss Douglass, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana C. Douglass of Bethel, will receive a year's credit for her work in Hawaii.

The New Division does not require a specific course structure of grading in its curriculum. Nasson will be represented in the program during the next academic year by Lorinda Wilder of Foxboro, Mass., and Jan Pelczarski of Fairhaven, Mass., both juniors at the New Division.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler has started work on the tax bills for 1968. The tax rate has been established at $37.00 per thousand, an increase of $4.00 over 1967. We should be able to mail the tax bills by the latter part of August.

The new office space is serving our purpose very well. As time goes on changes will be made to improve the facilities. Several have inquired as to how we moved the office safe. The answer is, we have not attempted to yet. There has been one mover look at it but he did not have the equipment necessary to do the job. As we have the bank vault to use, we do not need the safe in the new office, therefore we are going to leave it until the space is leased. The new tenant may have use for a safe. The mover who looked at it estimated the weight at around 4800 pounds and the cost of moving will be in excess of $300.

This will have a 4-foot fall at the dam to keep rough fish out of the pond. The bog is now being drained to get rid of the fish in it and the pond will be reclaimed this fall.

JULY 31st LECTURE TO BENEFIT HISTORICAL SOC.

The Bethel Historical Society is sponsoring a public lecture by Dr. Robert Pike, author of "Spiked Boots" and "Tall Trees and Tough Men" at the William Blingham Auditorium on July 31st at 8 p. m. Dr. Pike will speak on lumbering, and the people engaged in it in earlier days, and will also show a half-hour long colored film of river driving, with sound, taken by Victor Beaudoin, retired Brown Company photographer who will assist in showing the movie.

Dr. Pike, who is well known in the northern New England area, is a native of Waterford, Vermont, which town went out of existence when New England Power built a dam there in 1954 and flooded the area, which is now known as Moore Lake. Dr. Pike grew up on a farm, and worked in the woods for the old Connecticut Valley Lumber Company at West Stewartstown, N. H.

He has an A. B. degree from Dartmouth, an M. A. from the University of Minnesota, and a Ph.D. from Harvard. He has studied and travelled abroad, and served as a Captain in the Signal Corps in World War II.

He is also the author of "Fighting Yankee" and "Granite Laughter and Marble Tears", and is currently working on a book about the Connecticut Valley and its people.

His wife is a native of Paris, France, and they have a twelve year old daughter. Mrs. Pike and their daughter are accompanying him to Bethel.

The Historical Society feels very fortunate to present Dr. Pike, especially since many of the people he has written about are well known throughout this area. It is expected that many interested friends will be traveling to Bethel for this program, as it is the first time Dr. Pike has spoken in the northern area.

The donation receipts of one dollar per person for admittance to the lecture will help swell the society's fund towards eventual purchase of a home for the Historical Society and museum.

Robin and Linda Greenburg from Massachusetts are with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, for the summer. Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carson and Tamie Dee were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McLaughlin and daughter of Dixfield.

"STORY HOUR" AT LIBRARY TO START JULY 30

Starting Tuesday, July 30, at 1:30 p. m. all children ages 4-10 are invited to join an adventure in fun, reading and games at the Bethel Library. There will be stories read, told, and illustrated; records played, children telling their own stories and illustrating others. Instruction in the use of the Library will also be given. Any child who can responsibly use the books will be given his own library card.

The story hour will be on the Library lawn from 1:30-2:30 every Tuesday and Friday afternoon from July 30-Aug. 23; in the Library if it rains. Many children are already familiar with the Library, and are welcome, but it is especially hoped that parents of those children who have not yet started enjoying books or use of the Library will make a special effort to have them participate. If anyone needs transportation call Joan Jeffries (824-2231) or Joan Chadbourne (4-2222) or leave your name with the librarian.

This program is sponsored by the trustees of the Bethel Library Association with the hope that more people will more fully make use of the facilities. Volunteers are needed to help with the children and to provide transportation. Mrs. Mary Paine, Head Start teacher, will present a program to interested volunteers describing new methods of story-telling next week. Even if potential volunteers have only an hour a month and are interested, they are asked to call 824-2222 for more details.

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Collista Morgan, Corres.
We Mainers certainly had a taste of heat this last week for a few days at least. A haze hung over all the hills.

But things in the marsh land and along the pond shore seemed as bright and as cool as ever.

Before the sun was very high, it could have been seen, my little companion of the week, my niece and I set out in the boat to explore. Naturally she wished to row and as most six year olds, was sure she could. So to satisfy and yet to move on, I gave her an old broom light and worn. How she did paddle, glad she was such a helper.

We went among the pickered weeds, soon to look like a field of sapphire blue. From under its ambush of heart shape leaves now and then darted a fish. Beyond on the shore line we found the broad-leaved arrow-head, sometimes called swamp potatoes or duck potatoes by the early natives because of the type of roots.

Of course the broom was now and then put aside as we approached the showy, surface floating yellow pond lily, and it was forgotten entirely while entering the sweetness of the spotless queenly blossoms, the white lilies which she found fun in picking.

In places the river mist rose above the water and here and there we found cooler spots as we pushed into the dampness under graceful birches bending and inviting. We longed for a gentle whispering of wind but not a ripple anywhere.

The evergreens gave a tone of brown to the water along the edge, and two round eye like buttons with a spot in the center looked up at us. Mr. Frog knew how to beat the heat.

The distant mountain still slept under its blanket of haze and so gave us no hint of its towering beauty or no message of farewell.

We turned with a lingering wistful glance from the shadows of delicate cool mist under the trees into the still heavy air and put the three paddles again into use.

On reaching home she looked as fresh and cool as the lilies she fondled. As for energy, I wished she could have shared some with me.

"I don't worry about overdrawing my checking account any more."

Somebody leave her a small fortune? Nope. Not even a penny. She just got smart and added Bancardchek to her Casco checking account.

What the heck is Bancardchek? Well, it's lots of things. But what pleases her most is the cushion which Bancardchek adds to her checking account balance. With Bancardchek, if she slips up and writes a check for more than her balance Casco's computer simply lends her the difference up to $500 or more.

So, if your checking account puts a frown on your forehead now and then, check with us at Casco. We have a lot of ideas that can put a smile on your face. Add them all up and they explain why our customers say—
 "At Casco Bank & Trust they're always thinking about us."
